If we decide to retain certain documents whilst awaiting payment, we shall provide details of your insurance cover and any information or documents required by law.

7.5. We shall be entitled (but not obliged), without providing notice to you to set off any amounts due to us from you, against any amounts which we may receive on your behalf (i.e., claims moneys, refunded premiums and other sums). Please be aware that full or partial non-payment of a premium or default on a credit agreement may result in the cancellation or lapsing of your policy.

8. Transferred Business

8.1. When we are appointed to service insurance policies other than at their inception or renewal and which were originally arranged via another party, we shall not be liable during the current insurance period for any loss arising from any errors or omissions or gaps in your insurance cover, or advice not supplied by us. 10. Refund Procedures

10.1. For some insurance contracts, insurers will not provide refunds for mid-term cancellation of cover. We will tell you if this affects you.

10.2. We do not provide refund payments of less than £5.00.

11. Notification of Claims or Incidents

11.1. Many insurers provide a 24 hour helpline in respect of claims. Please refer to your policy documents for contact details.

11.2. Please ensure that you report all incidents that could give rise to a claim as soon as you become aware of them either by contacting your insurer or ourselves.

11.3. If you receive correspondence from a third party about your claim please pass it to us or your insurer immediately and unanswered.

11.4. If you require any assistance with a claim or incident please contact us.

12. Client and Insurer Money

12.1. We are not authorised to handle client monies, all client money is handled by BBPS Ltd. Details of who BBPS Ltd are are shown in section 2 above. BBPS Ltd hold all client money in a trust account, the purpose of which is to protect you in the event of financial failure since, in such circumstances, general creditors would not be able to make claims on client money.

12.2. If BBPS Ltd hold money on a client's behalf, it will be held in a trust fund that is separate from their own cash assets. These separate trust fund arrangements are commonly known as 'client money'. If they were ever unable to pay their debts, then those to whom they owe money (their creditors) should not be able to make claims on their client money in the separate trust funds as it does not form part of their own cash assets.

12.3. The trust arrangement BBPS Ltd use for client money is known as a non-statutory trust. Here, they may use premiums and claims monies they receive to fund other clients' premiums and claims; for example they may pay a premium on to an insurer before they have received it from the client if they believe it is in the best interests of that client.

12.4. BBPS Ltd have agreements with some insurers (known as 'risk transfer agreements'). Under these risk transfer agreements the insurers agree that they are responsible to you for any premium that you have already paid to us and that the insurer remains responsible for any premium refunds or claims payments until the premium refund or claim payment is received by you. In this case BBPS Ltd may hold client money due to or from the insurers in the same trust fund.

12.5. Where BBPS Ltd do not have risk transfer agreements in place with insurers, the client money they hold will still be protected within the non-statutory trust. Money held as client money has priority over insurers to the money in the trust fund as insurers granting risk transfer have agreed to subordinate their interests in the trust to those of BBPS Ltd non risk transfer clients.

12.6. BBPS Ltd do not use client money to pay commission before they receive your premium.

12.7. When BBPS Ltd hold client money on trust for you this gives rise to fiduciary duties upon them that will not be discharged until the client money is deemed to have reached the insurer or product provider (as detailed above, this is when they receive premium in case of risk transfer agreements).

12.8. Without affecting BBPS Ltd's fiduciary duties to you, in some cases they may:

- hold client money in accounts which are outside of the United Kingdom and which may be subject to different legal and regulatory conditions and may be treat money differently in the event of an bank failing. If you are a consumer (a person who buys products or services for personal use and not for business purposes) you can ask them not to put your client money in an account in a particular country.
- pass client money to another intermediary, including ones outside of the United Kingdom where different legal and regulatory conditions apply and where money may be treated differently in the event of an intermediary failing. If you are a consumer, you can ask them to pass your money to an intermediary outside of the United Kingdom or in a particular country.
- arrange to hold certain investments with a value at least equal to the money that would otherwise have been paid into a separate client account. If they do this, they will be responsible for meeting any shortfall in the client money funds if the shortfall is due to a reduction in the market value of those investments.

12.9. If, in the process of handing client money, they earn interest or benefit from investment income or from foreign rate movements, they will keep any such amounts.

13. Confidentiality and Security

13.1. To help make sure you receive a competitive quotation, offer of appropriate payment options, protection against fraud and to verify your identity, insurers may use publicly available data which they obtain from a variety of sources, including a credit reference agency and other external organisations. Their search will appear on your credit report whether or not your application proceeds.

13.2. All information on our records relating to you will be treated as private and confidential and will only be disclosed to others such as our business partners, insurers, credit providers and other third parties who are directly involved in the normal course of arranging and administering your insurance. By accessing our sites and using our services, you consent to any such transfer of information to a third party.

13.3. Where you have given us consent we may use the data we hold about you to provide you with a renewal quotation and information about products and services we consider may be appropriate.
